

Dear Kimpton Family,

Today, we're taking a big step toward improving the way we communicate and collaborate by launching Yammer, our new internal communications platform. Yammer looks and functions like Facebook, except it's for business and can only be accessed by Kimpton employees with an email address.

I'm no social media whiz, but I'm committed to learning this new tool and exploring its potential. Yammer will help us share company news, discuss best practices, coordinate projects and tap into employee expertise. It will help us work more closely together no matter where we are in the Kimpton nation.

You'll receive an email invitation shortly with a link to join. Hop on and say hello to your fellow Kimpton employees. To get started, take a look at the guide attached to this email.

I'm optimistic about the potential for Yammer to revolutionize the way we work, but it will take your participation and great ideas to bring Kimpton's community online.

I look forward to seeing you on Yammer.

All my best,

Mike Depatie
CEO
